ISO 18041-4 is part of the Synthetic Environmental Data Representation and Interchange Specification (SEDRIS) suite of international standards. ISO 18025, Environmental Data Coding Specification (EDCS), specifies a language independent application programmer interface (API). For integration into a programming language, the EDCS API is embedded in a language dependent layer obeying the particular conventions of that language; this part of ISO 18041 specifies the language dependent layer for the C programming language
