3. DEFINITIONS

3.1 Ammunition. A genaric term which includes all manner of missiles to be thrown against an enemy, such as, bullets, projectiles, rockets, cartridges, grenades, torpedoes, bombs, and guided missiles with their necessary propellants, primers, fuzes, detonators and charges of conventional explosive, nuclear explosive, chemical or other materiels. In the "broadest sense" the term is not limited to those materiels to be thrown, nor to use against an enemy, but will include all explosive devices, pyrotechnics and pyrotecnicdevices. The purpose is not limited and includes in addition to direct use against an enemy, such as illumination, signaling, saluting, mining, digging, cutting, accelerating, decelerating, demolition, decoying, practice, training, guarding, game hunting or just pure sport. All component parts, thereof, shall also be considered ammunition.

3.2 Ammunition Lot. A quantity of ammunition (complete rounds, components, propellants, etc.) which is manufacturered or assembled by one producer under uniform conditions and which is expected to function in a uniform manner. An ammunition lot is designated and identified by assignment of an ammunition lot number. All material comprising an ammunition lot must be homogeneous.

3.3 Ammunition Lot Number. A code number systematically assigned to each ammunition lot at the time of manufacture, assembly, or modification that uniquely identifies the particular ammunition lot.

3.4 GOCO Plant. Government owned contractor operated plant.

3.5 GOGO Plant. Government owned government operated plant.

3.6 Lotting concepts. This incorporates the basic philosophy that the units of product comprising a lot of ammunition have been produced or assembled at the same plant under homogeneous conditions and subsequently numbered systematically to assure accurate identification and control of the lot and its major components during their entire life cycle. Moreover, it accepts the theory that all portions of the lot are reasonably identifiable or capable of being identified with the parent lot as long as the original lot number is retained in its basic form.

3.7 Manufacturer's Identification Symbol. A combination of one, two, or three alpha characters assigned in a manner to indicate the unique identity of the arsenal, plant, depot, station, contractor, vendor, etc., which manufactured, assembled, renovated, regrouped, modified or loaded a specific item of ammunition or ammunition component. The manufacturer's identification symbol is an integral part of the ammunition lot number. It is the first entry of the lot number preceding the neumeric code used to identify the year of production. The alpha characters shall always be all capital letters.

3.8 Regroup/Regrouping. When two (2) or more complete round lots are combined to form one (1) lot, regardless of the type of maintenance operations which may or may not be performed in conjunction with the assemblage of these lots, this procedure shall be considered as "regrouping".

3.9 Renovation. A general term which denotes the performance of any process, other than complete breakdown and reassembly, required to render an existing term fully serviceable. Renovation includes rework, overhaul and modiFcication.

4. GENERAL REQUIREMENTS

4.1 Manufacturer's identification symbol. A combination of one, two, or three alpha characters assigned in a manner to indicate the unique identity and location of the arsenal, plant, depot, station, contractor, vendor, etc., which manufacturered, assembled, renovated, modified, or loaded a specific item of ammunition or ammunition component. the manufacturer's identification symbol is an integral part of the ammunition lot number (as defined in MIL-STD-1168, Ammunition Lot Numbering). It is the first entry of the lot number preceding the year of production. The alpha characters shall always be all capital letters.

4.2 Usage. Each private contracter, GOCO and GOGO plant operation must be assigned a manufacturer's identification symbol prior to the start of production of component parts or assembly of complete round items. Assurance that each producer engaged in the manufacture or assembly of ammunition items is assigned a symbol prior to the start of production and the proper use of the symbol during production will be the responsibility of the appropriate Product Quality Specialist. The NICP/NMP Product Assurance Commodity Mmanager, responsible for issuing instructions and directives for reworks, renovations, modifications, etc., will also be responsible for assuring that the installation performing such operations uses the correct manufacturer's symbol at all times. MIL-STD-1168, Ammunition Lot Numbering, directs proper usage of the ammunition lot number which the manufacturer's identification symbol is a part of.

4.3 Assignment. Symbols will be assigned by the US Army Armament Munitions and Chemical Command, AMSMC-QAD, Rock Island, Illinois. This MIL-STD identifies all manufacturer's identification symbols assigned as of the date of publication and will be updated annually to reflect new assignments and changes. Questions regarding symbol assignments will be resolved by AMSMC-QAD.

4.4 Changes in Symbol Assignment. Major management changes of geographical relocation of the production facility (including within city limits) will require changes in symbol assignment or the list of revisions. Table I provides the basic guidelines in symbol assignment. Requests for changes will be forwarded to AMSMC-QAD by letter. Immediate essential changes may be accomplished by telephone if followed by a confirmation letter. Information required in a request for change is:

a. Name, address and phone number of the requestor.

b. Present symbol assignment.

c. Manufacturer's name and address (new and old if applicable).

d. Reason for requesting change (new symbol assignment, change in ownership, moved to a new physical plant, etc.).
